

Mr. Sourabh SobtiHead of Business Development, Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations (CEPI)

Mr. Sourabh Sobti is a Biochemical Engineer from University College London with a public health background and currently working as Head of Business Development at Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations (CEPI). Sourabh joined CEPI in 2021 and has been part of Access, and Private Partnerships team responsible for structuring CEPI's investments and partnership agreements to enable equitable access for future outbreak response and improving health system equity. Team bridges the demand for accessible, affordable medical countermeasures with the ability to build sustainable partnerships and related systems. He has nearly 16 years' experience of strategic advisory, transactions, and collaborations in the life science industry. His work in public health started from his role in Global Markets team at Clinton Health Access Initiative where he was leading the supplier engagements for Vaccines, TB, and Malaria products in Asia to enable access to life saving health commodities for low- and middle-income countries. More recently, as Vice President Strategy and Operations at MSD Wellcome Trust Hilleman Laboratories Private Ltd., Sourabh was responsible for strategic collaborations and leading the India operations.